Orange Dust

Nelly Patterson

This is an epic Tjukurpa creation story. A man, Wati Nyiru chases seven sisters across Australia, shaping the land as they went. He wanted to marry the big sister and sang about how much he wanted her. The girls kept running and escaped into the sky, becoming the Pleiades constellation. Wati Nyiru became Orion, forever unable to catch the sisters.

OCEAN BLUE

This story comes from a big hill called Mawurriji, west of Yuendumu and north of Pikilyi (Vaughan Springs.) A group of Jangarna ancestors resided there. Every night they would go out in search of food. Their hunting trips took them to Wirliki and Wanapirdi, where they found pamapardu (flying ants.)

BLACK PEARL

Murleen Nanyupitjpa Morris
This style incorporates a beautiful mix of black and white, inspired from the black boots and light khaki in my work. The two light colors are used to create a pattern that is reminiscent of the sand dunes in the desert. The ones coming to this seat they wanted

BLACK COCKATOO

Pauline Puarantjarrnt
I have spent some artistic design creativity on cockatoo feathers.

BLACK SWAN

Andrea Adamson
This is the back of a swan and also covered the backrest and they tried to incorporate the colors of the swan. The swan also has the water and trees. The light and dark colors are used to create a pattern that is reminiscent of the swan's feathers. The ones coming to this seat they wanted

BLACK DOTS

Nelly Paterason
Steven Blakey, a young man from the Northern Territory, has been working on this design for a long time. He has been inspired by the traditional dot painting style of the Northern Territory. The ones coming to this seat they wanted

BLACK OPAL

Murleen Nanyupitjpa Morris
This design is inspired by the opal stones found in the Northern Territory. The ones coming to this seat they wanted
